

BOY CHAMPION TO BATTLE
FOR PING-PONG HONORS.

Douglas Little of Englewood Has Beaten Men of Great Repute as Players — Miss Wyndham Ahead in the "Hearts Aflame" Tournament.

LET OTHERS KNOW.

Ping-pong players are requested to send to the Ping-Pong Editor, Evening World, accounts of tournaments, announcements of coming contests, special matches, unusual scores and other matters of interest.

Now a boy ping-pong champion has arisen. He is Douglas Little, of Englewood - Across - the - River. This youth of sixteen has had but little practice, yet he has held his own with some of the greatest players in Manhattan. Playing in one of the Nassau street stores against experts who have won tournaments in the Yale, Princeton and Harvard Clubs, the boy has kept practically even with the best of them. They call him a wonder and say that if he kept in practice, which he doesn't, he might make himself a little bit better than most of the men.

Just now young Little is anxious to meet other boy players of skill. He is out for the youthful championship of ping-pong. Certain men who have seen him take care of the cannon-ball serve of the strongest players in New York are ready to back the youngster against all comers of anywhere near his age.

R. Townley Bryan, who aspires to championship honors himself has taken an interest in young Little and he hopes to arrange for the boy champion a match with other youthful pretenders.

Terror with Racquet. Douglas Little is slender and not very tall, but he is a terror with the racquet. What he lacks in reach he makes up in agility and vim. He can reach balls anywhere around, above or below the table, and he can place them nicely on the return. He does good head work, putting the ball into the most inconvenient spot for his opponent. He works fast, too, and as he has to travel about a great deal in reaching distant balls he kicks up quite a dust around his end of the table.

Aside from being something of a whirlwind in returning, this youngster has a fast hard serve that drives opponents away from the table. They have to stand out a good distance to let his hot serve cool off. Then when he has his opponent far away ready for long distance play young Little drops an easy ball that just pops over the net. He has six or seven rates of speed, and some of his serves, like an automobile just before the chauffeur is arrested, are not shooting as fast as they seem to be. With a boy champion of the game in the field the next thing is the girl champion. There are going to be several candidates for this honor, to judge from the letters fond parents are writing to the Evening World. So far none that have been heard of have actually demonstrated ability to defeat good adult players, but no doubt the little girl champion will appear shortly.

Big Girl Champion. There is a big girl champion in New York now, and she is the champion of a ping-pong tournament that is to be held every night for several weeks at the Hotel Astor. She is Olive Wyndham, who as her picture tells, is a girl yet.

The ping-pong tournament which is to play in it is to be held on one side of the table, a stage tourney and an actual one. It is to be held on one side of the table, a stage tourney and an actual one. It is to be held on one side of the table, a stage tourney and an actual one.

The young women of the city who are to maintain the first and best of ping-pong in New York are going to play in it. They are going to play in it. They are going to play in it.

Archie's Club's Results. The Archie's Club has entered the ping-pong tournament and is developing some championship players. It is developing some championship players. It is developing some championship players.

OLIVE WYNDHAM "HEARTS AFLAME" AT THE GARRICK THEATRE.

These four players will meet another team next Tuesday evening for the club championship.

Morris Ping-Pong Club.

There are only two exclusively ping-pong clubs in New York and one of them, the Morris Ping-Pong Club is very busy with a tournament for singles and doubles, which has not been finished. The results so far have been: In singles class "A," R. Townley Bryan, the expert, beat M. S. Clark, another well-known ping-pong player, by 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, class "B," H. H. Felt beat G. B. Miranda, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2. They also played for a side bet. The doubles proved to be very exciting, as the four used only one bat each. In class "A," H. N. Brodhead and M. S. Clark were defeated by R. Townley Bryan and L. A. Smith—score, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. Class "B," L. Edgerling and R. Kelle defeated R. Barter and E. Mansfield, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Notes of Ping Pong.

In Williamsburg there has been great rivalry between Alfred Murdoch and David Heisman, and their partisans in the Anawanda Club have never tired of shouting their respective praises. The result has been that a match for a heavy stake and the individual championship of Brooklyn has been arranged. It will be played at the Anawanda Club, Bedford avenue, near Broadway, Monday night, when a large attendance of members is expected. Louis Gumbert is to referee the match.

"Inquirer" asks about the best favor for a ping-pong party. Presumably each player already has a set of the game, out a prize set such as can be obtained in some of the stores is always an acceptable present. Favors in the nature of racquets can be obtained at several of the stores. One is a steel case containing with steel springs, where rubber has hitherto been used. A ball can be got out of any corner with this and the steel springs would break as did the rubber cup. Another is a variation of the rubber cup, one cup is placed at the end of the stick, the other on a bent wire extending from the other end. This can be introduced almost anywhere.

"Eighty-sixth Street" asks about the height of the net. It should rise three-quarters of an inch from the table for each foot of the table's length. Almost any of the sports and sports equipment stores will permit of adjustment of the net to suit.

AUTO RUNS DOWN
WOMAN ON B'WAY.

The Machine Was in Charge of Two Other Members of the Fair Sex—No Arrests Made.

Two women went scooting down Broadway in a light automobile this afternoon. One of the women was handling the lever. At Thirty-seventh street another woman got off a south-bound car.

The auto's horn squeaked and the woman from the street car made a dash for the sidewalk. The auto knocked her down and ran over her toes. She was scared half to death, but after she had been picked up and had time to catch her breath she found that she wasn't badly hurt. She refused to go to a hospital. She said her name was Louise Fitzwilliams of No. 302 West Seventy-second street. The women in the auto were not arrested. One of them was said to be a Mrs. Townsend. The auto bore the initials E. T.

BOY TRIED TO SAVE
MOTHER FROM FALL

Woman Slipped from His Grasp, Plunged Four Stories and Was Killed at Daughter's Feet.

While her little boy held desperately to her dress to save her from a four-story plunge, Elizabeth Corcoran, twenty-eight years old, fell headlong from the window of her home, No. 945 East One Hundred and Fifty-second street, today.

She struck the sidewalk and was killed almost at the feet of her eight-year-old daughter. Mrs. Corcoran was preparing breakfast for her husband and three children, and, needing some groceries, sent her little girl for them.

The child was away a long time and the mother opened the window and leaned out to try to see her. The woman's hand slipped from the window sill, upon which she was leaning, and she fell forward making frantic efforts to save herself. The little boy, Johnny, ran and caught his mother's dress as she was falling, but her weight was too much for him and he was forced to let go. It was only by holding on to the window work on the inside of the window that the boy saved himself from being dragged with the unfortunate woman, who screamed wildly when she felt herself going. The girl, Mary, was only a few feet away when her mother struck the ground, and she sat down on the sidewalk with the unconscious woman's head in her lap, while she cried out in terror. Johnny had, in the meantime, run into the parlor where his father lay asleep and awakened him. An ambulance was sent for, but the woman was dead when it arrived.
